Remarks on the Second Year Of The Licensing Program

The licensing procedure has been operating in a generally satisfactory manner and the Board is gratified at the total number licensed (76), which is greater than the original expectations. Although no cases involving the courts have arisen thus far, problems of ethics are beginning to appear, especially questions of appropriate areas of practice in terms of authorization. Some of these are being considered mutually by the Board of Examiners and the Ethics Committee of the South Carolina Psychological Association. A recent communication to all licensed psychologists is enclosed together with a complete list of licensees in alphabetical order, indicating the authorized area (s) of practice.

Respectfully submitted,

M. Kershaw Walsh, Ph. D. Chairman

A REPORT TO THE MEMBERSHIP OF S C P A

The following list comprises all persons licensed to practice psychology in the state since September 1969 together with the areas of authorized practice. Attention is called to the provision of the Licensing Act that all licensees are required to pay a fee of $10.00 before the second anniversary of his licensing so that his license may be renewed. At this time such licensees are expected to submit a brief report of the extent and nature of his practice. You are also reminded of the provision which permits licensees to broaden the scope of practice (e.g. into the field of clinical psychology) providing that satisfactory evidence of the completion of additional training is submitted. Psychologists licensed in the area of counseling (or industrial) psychology are not ordinarily authorized to accept strictly clinical cases or to render clinical diagnoses, or to give psychotherapy except where this has been authorized by the Board. This limitation does not affect services rendered within a clinic or similar institution on the part of salaried employees. Nevertheless, members of APA and/or SCPA who are responsible for the work of subordinates performing psychological services are expected to maintain professional standards and strive for an atmosphere in which adherence to the principles of professional ethics is sustained.

STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA
BOARD OF EXAMINERS IN PSYCHOLOGY

MEMORANDUM

August 25, 1970

IN REPLY ADDRESS:
DEPARTMENT OF PSYCHOLOGY
UNIVERSITY OF SOUTH CAROLINA
COLUMBIA, SOUTH CAROLINA 29208

To: All licensed psychologists
From: M. Kershaw Walsh, Chairman
Subject: Renewal of licenses, Ethical practice.

Your attention is called to the provision of the licensing act for renewing licenses for each two-year interval, beginning with the two-year anniversary of the license. You will find the date in question on the face of your license.

In applying for a renewal you are required to pay a fee of $10.00. Your application will also include a statement describing the nature of your private practice and indicating the kinds of cases and services involved. In the event that plans exist for any significant change in your practice, such changes should be explained.

You are reminded that at the time of licensing, a letter was sent which specified some area(s) of practice, and in some instances listed specific services which could be performed. Any announcement or public statement pertaining to the psychologist's private practice must indicate the area of practice authorized by the Board. All licensed psychologists agreed to abide by the ethical principles of professional practice as set forth by the American Psychological Association. These have been adopted by affiliate organizations, such as the South Carolina Psychological Association and were also incorporated into the legal framework through which this state issues licenses.

Licensed psychologists are responsible for knowing and practicing under these ethical guidelines. Compliance can be motivated by professional organizations, which may drop offending psychologists from membership. The State of South Carolina is also authorized to suspend the privilege of private practice or to revoke a license. If brought into court an offender may be fined up to $100.00 and his continuing to practice blocked by injunction, which in turn is supported by additional fines for contempt in the event that the injunction is ignored.

Licensed psychologists may have their right to practice promptly revoked if in the judgment of the Board the offenses are flagrant and unambiguous. Examples: improper advertising, making claims or attempting to perform services for which he is obviously not authorized or qualified such as: classifying himself with the medical profession, claiming to be able to perform functions of a psychological specialty outside of his area of authorization, e.g. clinical psychology. In those cases in which unauthorized services have been apparently performed covertly and where the evidences are not completely objectice and matters of public knowledge, the Board will conduct an appropriate investigation and, if convinced of the genuineness of complaints, will inform the accused of the nature of the charges against him and direct him to comply with professional guidelines relevant to his case. Where he refuses or cannot adequately explain his professional conduct, other steps will be taken by the Board as the evidence indicates.
